WONDER

The Renwick Gallery—the first building in the United States built expressly as an art museum reopened its doors after a major, two year renovation. To celebrate, the entire museum was transformed into an immersive artwork with their debut exhibition, WONDER. Nine leading contemporary artists—Jennifer Angus, Chakaia Booker, Gabriel Dawe, Tara Donovan, Patrick Dougherty, Janet Echelman, John Grade, Maya Lin and Leo Villareal—each took over a different gallery in the building, creating site-specific installations inspired by the Renwick. Together, these installations will turn the building into a larger-than-life work of art. Renwick Gallery, ongoing.

Marvelous Objects: Surrealist Sculpture from Paris to New York

The first major museum exhibition devoted to a comprehensive view of the movement's three-dimensional works brings together more than 100 works created by more than 20 artists from France, Spain, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, Great Britain and the United States from the 1920s to the 1950s. Hirshhorn Museum, through Feb 15.

Gauguin to Picasso: Masterworks from Switzerland

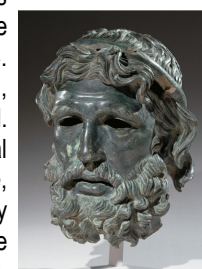

This exhibition focuses on a groundbreaking shift in the development of Swiss collections that occurred in the first decade of the 20th century, as patrons began to look beyond the contributions of regional painters and broaden their definition of modern art. From renowned collections, over 60 celebrated paintings created during the mid-19th and 20th centuries by 22 world-famous artists will be on view. The city of Basel's vital support for modern art, the approaches of the two collectors—who knew each other personally and developed friendships with artists—and their shared preference for colorful, expressive paintings of figures, still life and landscape unify these impressive works. The Phillips Collection, through Jan 10.

Power and Pathos: Bronze Sculpture of the Hellenistic World

Power and Pathos: Bronze Sculpture of the Hellenistic World presents 50 works that survey the development of Hellenistic art as it spread from Greece throughout the Mediterranean between the fourth and first centuries BC. Through the medium of bronze, artists were able to capture the dynamic realism, expression and detail that characterized the new artistic goals of the period. Power and Pathos brings together works from world-renowned archaeological museums in Austria, Croatia, Denmark, France, Georgia, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Spain and the United States. The exhibition presents a unique opportunity to witness the importance of bronze in the ancient world, when it became the preferred medium for portrait sculpture. National Gallery of Art, West Building, Dec 13 through March 20.

To your family from the Four Seasons family we wish you a Holiday Season and a New Year filled with health, peace and happiness!
