Since 2001, Peninsula Papagayo – the ownership group of Four Seasons Resort Costa Rica – has managed an award-winning social responsibility outreach program called Creciendo Juntos (Growing Together). The program gives Four Seasons guests rewarding volunteer opportunities within the local community, creating a more meaningful travel experience.

Whether you’re coming to Four Seasons for a family trip or a corporate team-building effort, we can custom-design a volunteer experience based on your goals, donation budget and amount of time available. You have the opportunity to get involved in supporting local schools, conserving the environment, or adopting a family or a child during your stay.

Volunteer experiences can include reading to local school children, painting a school, or even bringing a backpack from home filled with school supplies. If you or your family chooses to adopt a family, we hope the bond will carry on long after you leave the Resort.

Please ask our concierge team for more information about volunteering opportunities.
Help us preserve the flora and fauna of Peninsula Papagayo by not feeding the local wildlife. These are generally shy animals who feed on the fruit trees surrounding our property. When fed by humans, it alters their natural feeding behaviour. They become dependent on people, and can become bold and aggressive. Please help us keep them shy and wild!
