The setting for the inaugural reception of the United Nations General Assembly in 1946, the UN Ballroom enhances your celebrations with tradition and grandeur. Beneath a soaring eight-metre (26.2-foot) ceiling, this exquisitely restored space features intricate walnut panelling and two magnificent crystal chandeliers. Large windows overlook Trinity Square Gardens and beyond to the Tower of London and Tower Bridge. Your guests may gather in the adjoining UN Reception area for cocktails or dessert.

A one-of-a-kind circular ballroom, Merchants Hall glows with natural light from its circumference of windows. Each window is framed by images inspired by the cultures of the East, whose merchants once arrived in the Port of London for trading. To enhance your celebrations, a special dance floor may be installed. Located just across from the UN Ballroom, this contemporary venue also may use the UN Reception area for cocktails or dessert.

HERITAGE SUITES

UNRIVALLED
ELEGANCE

Our 11 spacious suites provide the ultimate in comfort for you and your guests. Featuring original architectural details from this 1922 landmark, our nine Heritage Suites are located on the ground floor within the original departmental offices of the Port of London Authority. Flooded with light from over-sized windows, these elite suites feature five-metre (16-foot) ceilings, ornate original plasterwork and a working fireplace.

All our suites are enhanced by the services of a dedicated guest relations manager.

ENTICING FLAVOURS

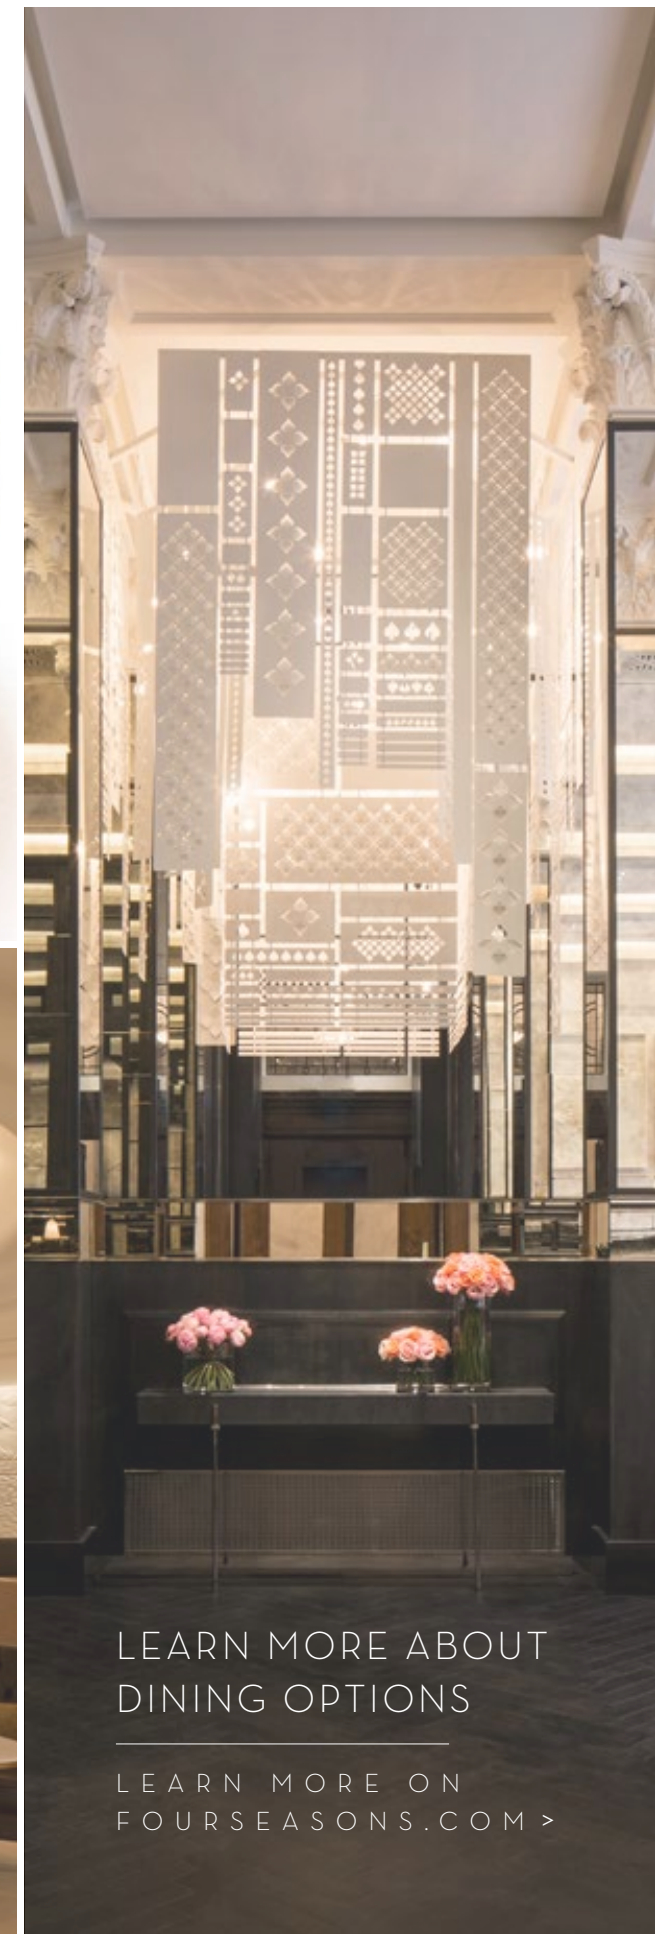

DESTINATION FOR DINING

You and your guests can enjoy some of London's finest dining – right here at Four Seasons.

La Dame de Pic London is the first UK restaurant by Chef Anne-Sophie Pic, the only current French female chef to be awarded three Michelin stars. Experience her signature French cuisine, renowned for unexpected flavour combinations. At our vibrant Asian restaurant, Mei Ume, explore the menu of authentic dishes from China and Japan prepared with a modern approach. Each restaurant includes a private dining room for up to 12 guests – ideal for a pre-wedding dinner or a farewell brunch.

Come to the circular Rotunda for intimate breakfasts, lunches and late-night drinks. Or savour your privacy with 24-hour In-Room Dining – a Four Seasons specialty.
